

December 14, 2021

To all,

Coca-Cola Bottlers Japan Inc.

Coca-Cola Bottlers Japan wins the Silver Award in "Cancer Ally Award 2021" hosted by Cancer Ally Project

Coca-Cola Bottlers Japan Inc. (headquarters in Minato-ku, Tokyo; Representative Director & President Calin Dragan; hereafter "CCBJI") is pleased to announce that it has been selected as the recipient of the Silver Award in "Cancer Ally Award 2021" hosted by Cancer Ally Project.

"Cancer Ally Award" was established by "Cancer Ally Project," a private organization that focuses on addressing the issues of "cancer and work" with an aim to create a society and workplace environment where workers with cancer are actively engaged in work while undergoing medical treatment. For this award, winners are selected through a screening process that includes the assessment of health management programs implemented by the shortlisted enterprises and organizations as well as their corporate culture.

CCBJI regards health management as one of its important business challenges, and provides its employees with screening cost support to detect diseases including cancer at an early stage and various systems they can use while receiving outpatient treatment or on leave of absence, or after returning to work. CCBJI helps its employees continue to work while undergoing treatment for their illness.

CCBJI's approaches to "cancer and work"

<https://www.gan-ally-bu.com/declaration/3140>

CCBJI will continue to place the first priority on its employees' health and safety and undertake various initiatives, whereby it aims to further promote and develop health management.

<Reference>

About "Cancer Ally Award"

<https://www.gan-ally-bu.com/award>

About Coca-Cola Bottlers Japan's health management

<https://en.ccbji.co.jp/csv/humanrights/health.php>

EOD